Story of the Stone, Volume II : The Crab-Flower Club ... In its subject material The Story of the Stone is a far cry from its peers — The Water Margin, The Romance of the Three Kingdoms and Journey to the West — which are full of politics, martial encounters, and adventure. It follows the lives of a "a number of females, conspicuous, if at all, only for their passion or folly or for some trifling talent or insignificant virtue", mostly in their mid-to-late teens. The Story of the Stone (Cao Xueqin) - book review The name "Crabflower" derives from David Hawkes' translation of the classic 18th Century Chinese novel "The Story of the Stone" (sometimes known in China as the "Dream of the Red Chamber"). In volume two of the novel; "The Crab-Flower Club", the eponymous poetry society is set up by young members of the Jia family - the protagonists of the story. The motivations at the heart of their collective endeavour to create art are complex.
